Nicole Vanrabaey

Nicole grew up in Thamesville on a cattle farm spending a lot of her time working with her dad. Although she maintained other jobs along the way, she always loved agriculture and what it meant to her family. After attending high school at LKCS in Dresden, Nicole went to the University of Windsor where she received a degree in Political Science and Digital Journalism. In her last years of school, she had to create a documentary on anything she wanted, so she chose to highlight the life of a farmer! Now, Nicole is working full time with her family on the farm.
